

Mayomann's Video Employment Platform reports a large interest in Video Resumes

Victoria, April 15, 2009 – Mayomann reports that since the site launched in January 2009, more than 50 companies are already using Mayomann.com to locate and screen prospective team members. Mayomann's customers include well-established businesses such as "Aerotek" one of the largest North American Employment Companies, temporary staffing agency "Kelly Service", "Investors Group" a Canadian leader in financial planning and investments, as well as insurance company "New York Life".

As layoffs affect HR departments, companies are forced to streamline the hiring process. Mario Gedicke, Founder and Managing Director of Mayomann, explains "Selecting and screening applicants is time-consuming. Companies are looking for efficiencies." While emerging technology is transforming the hiring process, the traditional resume is still needed. Three months into its first year of business, feedback from employers and job seekers has prompted Mayomann to add traditional resumes to the video resume platform. "Mayomann now combines the traditional resume with the best Video Employment Platform on the internet. Video resumes are a bonus that enhances the traditional resume" says Mario Gedicke. Employers post jobs, scan resumes, and screen candidates directly from their video resume.

Job seekers can conduct thorough inquiries for jobs in their field, post and review their video resume, include their written resumes online, and check to see which employers have viewed their profile – all at no cost. The video resume allows job seekers to take control of that all-important first impression, let employers know who they are and make their resume stand out.

Human Resource managers welcome Mayomann's latest offer, a one-year free subscription without any obligations attached. "We understand that employers want to try this new tool without risk. Throughout the year, a business can add an unlimited number of job offers and even post a company video to brand their product and company" says Mario Gedicke. We also include all our Job opportunities to Job search engines, including Indeed and Simplyhired, to market all active Job offers on Mayomann.com.
